Hi Rebecca,

Thank you for the presentation. We are considering your input from all of the conference calls to revise our comments. We should be able to provide these revised comments and remaining minor comments to Excelsior before our next call on February 23rd to get your responses in writing.

On the issue of whether or not mechanical integrity (MI) requirements would be required for existing intermediate monitoring wells (IMW), based on the information provided, our technical team does not believe that MI requirements, such as external/internal MI, would be necessary for the existing IMWs. We can discuss this issue again during our next call.

If you have any questions, please let me know.

Thanks, Nancy
